Continuation of Substance of Interview including description of the general nature of what was agreed to if an agreement was reached, or any other comments: Mr. Valcarcel asserted that the direct channel and indirect channel imply the distinction of the seller knowing the identity of the buyer and the buyer being anonymous to the seller, respectively. The Examiner explained that the claim language does not expressly recite the anonymity feature as argued by Mr. Valcarcel. Mr. Valcarcel also asserted that Giovannoli does not teach an inventory database. The Examiner explained that the claim language does not support an inventory database. Figure 4 of Giovannoli teaches a product database which is sufficient to meet the claim limitations.

Lastly, the applicant asserted that the "intermediary" purchases the goods/services, but the claim language states "acquires", which is interpreted differently and does not constitute a purchase. To acquire something means to gain possession of or locate. The Examiner pointed out that column 8, lines 5-12 teaches a buyer that uses the quotation system to resell product to another buyer, whereby the buyer would be acting as an intermediary and using an indirect channel (the quotation system) for selling to the second buyer. The Examiner will consider Mr. Valcarcel's arguments upon receipt of a formal response.
